Twentieth Sunday after Trinity

God, our light and our salvation:
illuminate our lives,
that we may see your goodness

PRAYERS

Seed of life

Lord, in this world you have sown the seeds of life in the hearts of our daughters and sons, seeds which are growing slowly and quietly, seeds whose fruit is the strengthening of hope.

But weed seeds have also been sown.
Their fruit is sadness, sorrow and death.
They try to suffocate all efforts to build a different world.

We draw closer to you in prayer so we can perceive these situations which discourage and confuse, causing dejection.

Equip us to uncover and denounce evil without hurting the lives of those sowing love and justice.

Fortify the weak stalks so that hope and patience flower in us, to follow you without ever halting our sowing.

Gracious God, be close to those who, for whatever reason are struggling to cope with today, and this impacts not only on their lives but those of friends, family or work colleagues.
Bring peace into their turmoil, love into their emptiness and the help that they so need, to become the person you know that they could be.
